

CURTAIN UP ON COMEDY

'The show must go on' is the old adage - but this particular show has been brought forward by several weeks!

Stage Two Downham has pulled out the stops to perform 'The other fellow's oats' ahead of schedule, to prevent a clash with Clitheroe Amateur Theatre Society's December production of 'Annie'.

The play, which had its dress rehearsal on Monday night, is a comedy concerning a group of people trapped in a one-bed roomed London flat with a maintenance man.

Taking a leading role in the show is Clitheroe amateur actress Dorothy Cushing - as its producer.

Mrs Cushing of Waddington Road, said 'Being the producer involves everything from the selection of actors to the building of the set. I am enjoying producing very much: it's much different from acting'

The play will be performed at Downham Village Hall from Wednesday to Saturday next week.
