

In "Local Affairs" the Set represents both 3 different houses and the rooms of 1 house on a "superior" housing development.

In Act One we are given a glimpse into the eccentricities, problems and frustrations, which surround the occupants, who have only recently moved in. Mothers-in-Law, children, and fancy-dress parties create tears and tensions. In Act Two circumstances bring these characters together and an unlikely group of people become acquainted, although I hasten to add, never become neighbours in the true sense of the word!!

The play was first performed on tour by Bill Kenwright and the cast included Adrienne Corri, Irene Handl, and Ronald Hewlett.
